

Hi Fastly Team,

I would like to express my interest in the Rails Engineer position. I am a software developer with experience in Ruby, JavaScript, Python, SQL, and frameworks such as Ruby on Rails and React with Redux. These technologies are utilized in many of my projects, with one of them being a full stack web application that can be found at www.airbadnboujee.com.

My prior professional experience includes working at Facebook as a Search Quality Analyst where I was able to operate on a Search product from beta testing stages to it's eventual public rollout. On top of this, I have also been exposed to both the marketing and retail sector through opportunities with Google and MarketStar as a Tech Specialist.

I would love to talk more about the current opening and be considered for the engineering position. Without a doubt, I believe I not only have the necessary qualifications and work experience for the role but there is great parallel when it comes to a cultural fit with the company. A little more about me as well as my resume can be found at www.allenchen.io!

Thank you for your time,

Allen Chen

<https://github.com/alnchen>

<https://linkedin.com/in/alchen1231/>